

Central Connecticut State University

Department of Counseling & Family Therapy

M.S. in Marriage and Family Therapy

Evening Track and Weekend Cohort Track

The CCSU Master's Program in Marriage & Family Therapy (MFT):

- Is Nationally accredited by the COAMFTE
- Individualizes each student's program of study based on personal goals
- Is a 3-year program, with 2 years of supervised clinical experience
- Offers a holistic approach to addressing social and emotional issues
- Has a highly experienced, caring, and committed faculty
- Provides a strong foundation in theory and practice
- Is very diverse in its students and faculty

What is Unique about the CCSU MFT Program:

- Offers new and innovative approaches to conducting therapy
- Has a specialty track that leads to certification to work in public schools
- Accessible and affordable
- Only MFT Weekend cohort in CT
- Option for completing requirements for MFT School Certification

CCSU MFT Graduates:

- Are highly employable (90% employed in the field after graduation)
- Can become licensed mental health professionals (LMFT)
- Work with individuals, couples, families, groups, and larger systems
- Diagnose and treat mental, emotional, and behavioral disorders
- Work in a variety of settings, including agencies, hospitals, schools, and private practice

The Evening Track Option:

- Classes meet one evening per week for each course
- Flexible: Full- and part-time options
- Convenient for students who have day jobs
- Fall and Spring admissions

The Weekend Cohort Track Option:

- Classes Friday Evenings and Saturdays ONLY
- Each cohort is a small selected group of students that remain together
- Ideal for students who can't take classes during the week or live a far distance from campus
- Summer admission only

For requirements and other details about the MFT program, please visit:

www.ccsu.edu/MFT or call 860-832-2122

Apply Now: www.ccsu.edu/gradapplication

Application Deadline March 1, 2016